Title Polychrome Bowl with Leaping Hares and Seated Cheetahs

Date 16th century

Medium Stonepaste, underglaze-painted over a slip coating

Description This dish is playfully decorated with a lively scene of seated cheetahs and bounding hares on a bright, turquoise ground. The dish represents a type of pottery known as Iznik ware that originated in the town of Iznik in present-day Turkey. These wares were produced between the 1480s and about 1700. While floral motifs dominate the decorative
